

What does “PINS” mean?

A child under the age of 18 who does not attend school, behaves in a way that is dangerous or out of control, and/or often disobeys his or her parents, guardians or other authorities, may be found to be a Person In Need of Supervision or "PINS".

When community-based services and support have been exhausted and behaviors continue to escalate, a PINS petition may be filed in Family Court. A PINS petition is filed as an action of last resort, when all voluntary efforts have failed and/or the safety of child or others is in question. Once a petition is filed in court, involvement is no longer voluntary - all decisions are then made by Family Court.

The Greene County Youth Bureau Supportive Youth and Family Pre-Prevention program is the first step in mentoring youth who are at risk of a PINS petition.

What is the Youth Bureau Supportive Youth and Family Pre-Prevention Program?

The primary objective of the Youth Bureau Pre-Prevention Supportive Youth Program is a voluntary point of entry program to support services for youth and their families when incorrigible behaviors and/or school avoidance/truancy may lead to further involvement in Family Court, Juvenile Justice System, or Probation. The Youth Bureau Pre-Prevention Supportive Youth Program is designed to support and mentor youth and their families in the county.
